(2) "Easement" includes-

- (a) the access and use of light or air to and from any building enjoyed with the building as an easement;
- (b) any way or water course, or the use of any water, enjoyed as an easement.

No easement over public land

32.(1) The provisions of section 31 shall not apply in respect of any public land and no easement or other right whatsoever shall be acquired by virtue of the operation of the provisions of that section upon, over or from any public land.

(2) Where any easement or other right has been acquired by virtue of the provisions of section 31 upon, over or from any land which is not public land, such easement or other right shall be extinguished upon reversion of the land to the President.

Right of action not to accrue or continue unless adverse possession

33.-(1) A right of action to recover land shall not accrue unless the land is in possession of some person in whose favour the period of limitation can run (which possession is in this Act referred to as "adverse possession") and, where on the date on which the right of action to recover any land accrues and no person is in adverse possession of the land, a right of action shall not accrue unless and until some person takes adverse possession of the land.

(2) Where a right of action to recover land has accrued and thereafter, before the right is barred, the land ceases to be in adverse possession, the right of action shall no longer be taken to have accrued and a fresh right of action shall not accrue unless and until some person again takes adverse possession of the land.

(3) For the purposes of this section receipt of rent under a lease by a person wrongfully claiming the land in reversion, shall be deemed to be adverse possession of the land.

34. For the purposes of this Act no person shall be deemed to have been in possession of any land by reason only of his having made a formal entry thereon, and no continual or other claim upon or near any land shall operate to preserve any right of action to recover the land.

Right of action not preserved by formal entry or continual claim Administration dates back to death

35. For the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to suits for the recovery of land, an administrator of the estate of a deceased person shall be taken to claim as if there had been no interval of time between the death of the deceased person and the grant of the letters of administration or, as the case may be, of the probate.

36.-(1) Subject to the provisions of section 18, this Act shall apply to equitable interests in land, including interest in the proceeds of the sale of land held upon trust for sale, in like manner as it applies to legal estates, and accordingly, for the purposes of this Act, a right of action in respect of any such equitable interest shall accrue in the like manner and circumstances and on the same date as it would accrue if the interest were a legal estate in the land.

Equitable interests

(2) Where the land is held upon trust, including a trust for sale, and the period of limitation prescribed for an action by the trustees to recover the land has expired, the estate of the trustees shall not be extinguished if and so long as the right of action to recover the land of any person entitled to a beneficial interest in the land or in the proceeds of sale, either has not accrued or has not been barred by this Act, but when the right of action is so barred the estate of the trustees shall be extinguished.

(3) Where any land is held upon trust including a trust for sale, an action to recover the land may be brought by the trustees on behalf of any person entitled to a beneficial interest in possession of the land or in the proceeds of sale, whose right of action has not been barred by this Act, notwithstanding that the right of action of the trustees would, apart from this subsection, have been barred by this Act.

37.-(1) Where a person claims to have become entitled by adverse possession to any land held under a right of occupancy or for any other estate or interest, he may apply to the High Court for an order that he be registered under the relevant law as the holder of the right of occupancy or such other estate or interest, as the case may be, in place of the person then registered as such holder, and the High Court may, upon being satisfied that the applicant has become so entitled to such land, make an order that he be registered accordingly, or may make such other order as the High Court may deem fit.

Registration of title to land or easement acquired under this Act

(2) Where an order has been made under subsection (1) the Registrar shall take such steps as may be necessary to give effect to the order.

(3) Where a person has acquired an easement under the provisions of this Act, he may apply to the High Court for an order vesting the easement in him, and upon such order being made he may present the same to the Registrar for registration in the register of the land affected, and the Registrar shall register the same accordingly.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of this Act or of any other written law, no estate or interest in any land or easement shall vest in any person by adverse possession or by any virtue of prescription unless an order in respect of such estate or interest, or as the case may be, easement, has been made under subsection (1) or subsection (3).

(5) Every application under this section shall be by way of a suit, and in every such suit the person from whom the estate, interest or easement is claimed to have been acquired and the Commissioner for Lands, shall be made parties.

(b) any estate or interest acquired in any land other than public land by adverse possession or by reason of any law of prescription shall expire upon the expiry, revocation or determination of the right of occupancy under which the land is held or, where the land was not held under a right of occupancy, upon the reversion of such land to the President;

(c) no suit or other proceeding by or on behalf of the President or the Government of the United Republic for the recovery of land shall be dismissed on the ground that the period of limitation has expired.

(6) In relation to an arbitration under any written law, subsections (3) and (4) of this section shall have effect as if references to the submission were references to such provision of the written law as relate to the arbitration.

41. For the purposes of this Act any claim by way of set-off or counter-claim shall be deemed to be a separate action and to have been commenced on the same date as the suit in which the set-off or counter-claim is pleaded.
